

Take time to learn and really concentrate in the sessions...

My Apprenticeship Journey

Hear from one of our incredible learners from Poundland who has experienced the journey firsthand.

Damian is currently completing his LGV apprenticeship with Learning Curve Group at his place of employment, Poundland. As he eagerly awaits his practical test, Damian has found his apprenticeship to be a really useful pathway in the development of his skills and knowledge.

With frequent lessons covering an array of knowledge, skills and behaviours essential for being an LGV driver, Damian has most enjoyed learning and preparing for his theory test where he could exercise and challenge the knowledge that he has acquired during his course.

Damian has found that his Vocational Skills Coach, Michelle, from Learning Curve Group, has been an instrumental part of his learning journey, and has provided consistent and unwavering support when he encountered challenges.

His behaviours have developed, and Damian now feels more confident in completing a task as he approaches it with a focussed mind and understands the importance of time management.

Damian recommends apprenticeships to anybody considering one, believing that they are valuable in expanding your knowledge. He advocates that you can make the most out of the opportunity if you take the time to learn and really concentrate in the sessions. Once he has obtained his LGV licence, Damian is keen to gain as much experience as possible!
